MANUFACTURING PROCESS

Step 1 : Raw Materials

Brass is an alloy of copper and zinc that is popularly used for manufacturing faucets because of its property to be resistant to corrosion and hard-water calcification. The components of a faucet can be made up of metals other than copper and zinc. These are received as finished components from other manufacturers.

Step 2 : Core Moulding

A solid core is made from fine sand and a hardening agent by heating in a core box machine. The core is a central part of the production process, as it forms water channels in the faucet body during casting.

Step 3 : Casting

During casting, The person responsible for casting places the cores inside the mould and removes any loose sand from the shell mould using compressed air. Molten brass flows into the shell moulds. The solid core maintains waterways open inside the mould, Molten brass flows into the shell moulds. The solid core maintains waterways open inside the mould

Step 4 : Machining

Lathe is a machine tool used to machine the turning surface by rotating the workpiece and moving the feed turning tool. According to use: instrument lathe, horizontal lathe, CNC lathe, etc Drilling machine: This is a machine that mainly uses a drill to process holes on the workpiece. Generally, the bit rotates with the main motion, while the bit moves axially with the feed motion.

Step 5 : Polishing

This process is essential to achieve precise surface finishing. To obtain a high-quality product that exudes a shine, the brass surface is polished to technical precision. This is a combination of manual and machine-driven processes. Once the polishing is done, only then can the product be sent for chrome plating.

Step 6 : Electroplating
